

No I do not think the "No Call List" law should be changed. The banks send enough crap thru the mail. I do not want to be spending time with my family and have to stop for some telemarketer. That is why our name is on the list to begin with.

Banks are no different from any other telemarketer why should the rules be different for them???